Girls Observe

May Day Here

Continuing a now well established tradition, the department of physical education for women observed on the afternoon of Saturday, May 5, the annual May-Day festival. The theme chosen for the occasion was that of an English May-Day of the time of Queen Elizabeth. Each number on the program presented some characteristic of the typical May-Day of that period.

Entering in procession through the arch on the Kalarathian lawn the groups assembled on the Athenian lawn, upon which had been placed thrones for the May queen and Queen Elizabeth.

Participants entered as follows:
Herald: George Thompson
Pages: Dan Watson Jones and J. Y. Hamrick
Ladies of Elizabeth's Court:
Lady Leicester Sarah Thompson
Lady Derby Hermina Hamrick
Countess of Pembroke

Julia Renfro
Lady Padget Kathleen Hamrick
Gentlemen of the Court:

Barle of Essex Dixie Green
Doctor Masters Catherine Hamrick
Lord Cobham Hope Finch
Sir Walter Raleigh Edith Hamrick
Lord Hundson Carolyn Hamrick
Queen Elizabeth Margaret Green,
May Queen

Robin Hood Am. Catherine Green
Robin Hood's Men Sarah Hamrick,
Mary Lee Moore

Tumblers and Folk Dancers:
Mary Hamrick, Cathreen Fuller
Helen Greene, Lois Long, Annette Blanton, Dorothy Washburn, Ruth Wacaster, Mary Russell, Ruby Lynch, Genevieve Blanton, Esther Bridges, Sibel Moore, Jean Moore Thompson, Elizabeth Long.

Hobby Horse Jesters:
Selma Wellman, Margaret Lee.
Flower Girls: Betty Jean Hamrick, Catherine Burnette, Betty Lou Jenkins, Mary Etta Hamrick.

Maids: Mary Sue Mullinax, Beryl Davidson, Mary Sue Holland, Florence Hamilton, Kathleen Davidson, Hazel Lindsay.

Maid of Honor: Margaret Autrey.
Crown Bearer: Billy Walker.
Queen of May: Lalage Sperling.
Train Bearers: Dolores Bell, Audrey Hamrick.

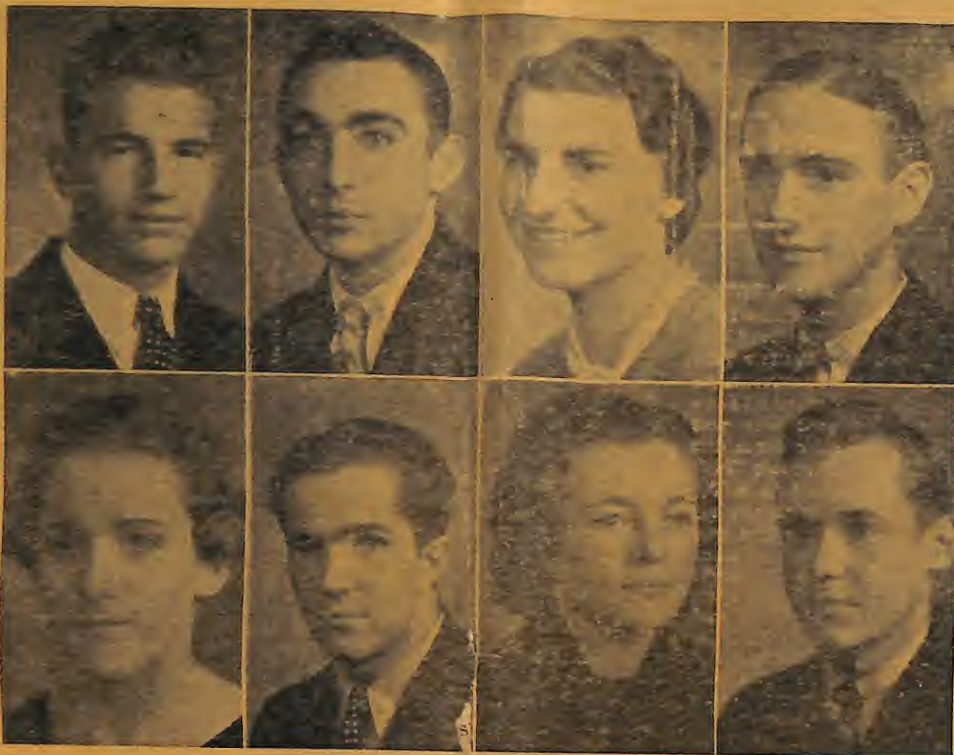

Arrived on the lawn, the members of the procession halted in formation to await the queen. Upon her arrival, she was crowned by Queen Elizabeth, who, then, accompanied by her attendants, assumed her throne, as guest of honor.

The program presented for the queen's entertainment was made up of the following numbers:
Tumbling and Pyramids.
Morris Dance, Bobbing Joe.
English Jig, Ruffy Tufty.
Searf Dance.
Highland Fling.
Rainbow Dance
Maypole Dance.

The hobby horse comical imitations of the dances added a note of mirth.

A feature of the occasion was the colorfulness achieved in decorations and costumes. The snow-white throne of the May Queen, resting against a stately flower-covered background was the center of interest on the lower terrace. On the upper terrace, facing the May

Societies Prepare For Annual Play

Members of the literary societies will play in the College auditorium on the evening of Monday, May 21. The title of the play is "The Charming Pretender" by Charles George. "If you'll only pretend that things are better than they really are, life can be made well worth the living and a beautiful adventure." From this optimistic motif the author has woven a play expressing a beautiful philosophy of life.

The cast of characters of the play is as follows:
Andrew Carmichael, a young American..... Felix Hamrick
Sue Alexander, the Pretender
Mary Sue Holland
Buchanan Drexel, financier
James Hamrick
Eloise Drexel, his daughter
Lalage Sperling
Steven, his son
Broughton Ramsey
Cavanaugh, a butler
Elmo Scoggin

Lord Marshall Kendall, a young Englishman, William Harrill
"You'll love Sue's pretending and how she proves the adage, "If you believe it, it's so," promises the coach.

Members of the cast represent the two literary societies. The proceeds from the play will be equally divided between the societies.

The society play is a well established tradition of commencement week. The offering of the present year is under the direction of Miss Ada Hamrick, member of the High School Faculty.

Queen's, was Queen Elizabeth's throne in green and purple.
The May Queen wore white satin with long net train and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Her crown was of flowers.

The maid of honor wore pastel blue net, with shoulder corsage. Other maids' and flower girls' dresses were of harmonizing pastel shades of net. Queen Elizabeth

Students Change Election Methods

Brown, student body president, students have adopted what is considered a more desirable plan of electing campus officers than those used in former years. The new plan is that of an all-campus nominating committee, to which unit organizations make recommendations. After due consideration, the committee either affirms or rejects recommendations and posts names at least twenty-four hours before the hour for holding the election. Those wishing to make additional nominations may do so by securing and posting the names of fifteen people who wish such nominations.

The personnel of the nominating committee is as follows:

It is felt by the proponents of the plan that a more nearly equal and a fairer distribution of duties and honors will be achieved by the plan.

In this crowded world, no one knows what kind of position he will be able to secure. People have, as they thought, prepared to do high classed office work; but when the test came, they were unable to produce the material needed to hold the position, due to the lack of training while in college. They took only one course and did not master it fully; so that when the test came, they failed. With so many people seeking high positions, a student in college should take every possible course that he can get.

Dutch, in keeping with the central idea of the evening.
The class was directed and assisted by the sponsor, Miss McMurtrey.

Bulldogs Hold

Their Grip

With only one defeat to mar their record the Bulldogs go into the final lap of their championship race with high hopes of bringing home the bunting. In six games played they have amassed 83 hits for an average of 1.4 per game, rather nice total for any man's team as any good baseball fan will agree.

The pitching duties have been well handled by Witterow, veteran of last year's staff, Putnam, and Norment. Though they have appeared weak at times, the trio has been able to come through in the pinches with some nifty hurling.

The fielding has been somewhat erratic. At times scintillating with double plays the order of the day, and at other times bobbling the ball when an error was costly. The fielding, however, has proved less faulty as the season progressed.

The receiving job has proved a sore spot for Coach Hutchins, but now seems to be fairly capably handled. For the first several games, Baker, a converted outfielder, was assigned to work behind the plate. An excellent hitter, but inexperienced in catching, Baker was soon moved to the outfield. Sam mark and shin—guards for the remainder of the season.

The conference season opened with the Bulldogs meeting Textile Junior College of Spartanburg at the City Park in Shelby. While Withrow and Norment were lifting the Textiles to nine tallies, the Bulldogs, turned thirteen hits into as many runs. Connor led the hitting with a perfect day in five trips to the plate. Mauney and Wilson followed with two hits for four times at bat.

The Textile game was returned at Spartanburg the following week. This time the count was 10-7, with Putnam the winning pitcher. Harrill, Hendrick, and Mauney led in hitting as the team banged out fifteen bingles.

The Abbeyites from Belmont Abbey were next to fall before the bats of the rampaging Bulldogs.

This was a ten inning 8-7 verdict gained with Withrow and Norment hurling. Baker tripled to deep left field to drive in the deciding marker. Harrill and Peeler led the Bulldogs in hitting as the team amassed 15 hits.

Playing at Shelby before the largest crowd of the season, the Bulldogs were victims of an eleventh inning rally which netted the Wingate nine a 4-3 decision and gave the Bulldogs their first and only taste of defeat. Withrow and Norment did the tossing with Norment receiving credit for the loss. Baker led at bat with two safeties for four times.

Seeking revenge, the Bulldogs went westward and stormed out eighteen hits to defeat the Weaver College aggregation 11-7 on the Weaver College diamond. Putnam and Norment did the chunking. The high spots of the game were circuit drives by Wilson and Baker. Harrill and Mauney contributed 3 singles each to help in the massacre.

Still larping the ball, the Bulldogs took on the Presbyterian from P. J. C. and emerged 15-5 (Continued on Page Six)

THE NEW REGIME AT BOILING SPRINGS

Since progress depends upon change, there has been ample room for progress in the school life at B. S. during the past year. Some of these changes have made both history and progress in the life of this institution. We say progress making with the sincere belief that at least part of the new movements will be most beneficial in creating more efficiency in the administration of the activities of college and increasing the extent of student participation in the relations between them, and the faculty.

There has been for a long time a vital need for some system to substitute for the haphazard method used in the nomination and election of the different student officials. This need has been met by the school nominating committee, composed of two faculty members and the heads of the different student organizations on the campus. This committee can sit down, calmly look at the situation as a whole, and bestow the honor of these important positions on those of ability who merit them. This committee is at all times, however, subject to the will of the majority of the students. Its purpose is to do a service for the student body as a whole and to do justice to each student considered separately.

Another event to be hailed by the incoming students is the fact that student participation in their government has increased during the past year. With only one setback, it seems to have functioned during the present year to the general satisfaction of both students and faculty. It is a splendid tribute to pay to any educational institution to say that the students are capable of handling the various difficulties that arise in the general run of the school year with as much credit and cooperation as the student body has done here during the past year. May the student government ever prosper.

Another movement which will further the tendency toward a new regime at B. S. is the fact that, in the future only those of the Baptist sect will be employed as instructors in this Baptist educational institution. There could be much said for both sides of this question and only the future can tell whether there are any real benefits to be derived from such a move; or, whether there was any harm resulted from the old custom of not discriminating among teachers because of their religious beliefs. In the long run, however, a program like this should not inconvenience anyone; for there are Baptist instructors in other schools of various faiths. Thus it seems reasonable that everyone should be able to get settled in a harmonious location and carry on the work of his chosen profession. There is at present a prevailing rumor that a change will be inaugurated at the boys' dormitory which will probably not be thoroughly appreciated by new students but which will make the present second year boys want to come back yet a third year and the now first year boys feel really fortunate in being able to come back as seniors next year. It is the employing of a janitor to sweep and tidy up both the boys' rooms and the halls. This tidying up of the "Barn" will be done daily throughout the school year.

Let's have a better and always better Boiling Springs College as the years come and go.

BUT FOR THESE

"Money makes the mare go," says Washington Irving in the title of one of his stories. The Kalarathea staff have learned that it takes money to make newspapers, as well as mares, go. Try with all the main force and awkwardness they could muster, they could not make the Kalarathea go without the help of the business people who have advertised with them. Does one suggest that they reaped return from the business which they enjoyed as a result of their support of us? We would reply with the reminder that "The workman is worthy of his hire;" and we wish these people to know that we not only thank them for their support, but that we hope their business has been noticeably increased as a result of our carrying their advertising. We

A Worthy Example

"Seest Thou a man diligent in his business; he shall stand before kings." Often have I heard Professor Huggins quote this passage of scripture. Many times when his students were careless and neglectful he would inspire them to higher and greater things with this quotation. He not only quoted the passage, but he lived it. Professor Huggins was one of the most diligent persons that has ever lived. Even though he was handicapped and suffered exceedingly, yet he still worked diligently and faithfully for the maintenance of the school he loved, and for his students who were trying to accomplish something worthwhile. As a result of his diligence, Professor Huggins did stand before kings not real human kings; but he stood before the kings of respect, honor, and love.

Professor Huggins' life should be an inspiration to us to press forward and to work diligently to reach our goal. Of course all of us cannot accomplish such things as he did, but we can strive and work to accomplish worthy ideals. If Professor Huggins, with one of his limbs gone, could render the service that he did, surely those of us who have all parts of our body can at least do our best for the benefit of humanity; and in doing our best we shall be able to stand before kings. But some of us are saying we can not do what Prof. Huggins did. Maybe we cannot, but we can be diligent. We can start with the small things and they will gradually lead us to larger things. We can be prompt in all of our work. We can spend every moment that we possibly can studying diligently to increase our knowledge. We can use our time in a way that will be most beneficial to the world and serve and advertise it by going back to our studies better and more enlightened persons than we were when we came here.

Let all of us follow Professor Huggins' example by working diligently to accomplish worthy tasks. Esther Bridges, '35

In many respects, this has been an unusually good year at our college and all indications point to a better year next year.

I wish to express my personal appreciation for the excellent work and fine cooperation of our teachers. No Junior College in the world has a better faculty. They have all worked faithfully, despite the small amount they have received and every one has remained loyal and pleasant in the face of difficulties.

J. L. Jenkins

Mr. Huggins as his friends know him.

I cannot adequately express in words what Prof. Huggins meant to me. During the eighteen years we taught together he was counselor, father, and friend to me. His life will live forever in the memory of those who came in close contact with him.

O. P. Hamrick

If I knew that when I died I would have half as many friends and had done a small percentage of as much good in the world as Professor Huggins has, I would be happy.

Miss Rosalie McMurtrey

He knew how to be a real friend and only those who have felt, at some time in their lives, friendless can have the truest appreciation of such a character. He was self-consumed as a burden-bearer, realizing, without forcing confidence or sacrificing proper pride, just where his help and encouragement would mean most, and giving them where needed without stint.

If success is ever mine it will be due largely to the leadership of Prof. Huggins.

Gail Bridges

Always approachable, always sympathetic and worthy of our praise.

Mrs. Ritch

I claim the honor of calling him friend.

M. G. Pangle

A true friend to his teaching staff, expecting of them no greater sacrifice than he himself was willing to make.

Loula M. Pangle

I found Mr. Huggins to be one of the sweetest spirits I have ever had the privilege of knowing.

Mary E. Ables

The memory of my friend and teacher Prof. J. D. Huggins will be a constant inspiration to me to press on toward the mark of the high calling in Christ Jesus.

I long for the day to come when I shall meet Prof. Huggins in that celestial city of God which is called Heaven.

Felix E. Hamrick

I first knew Mr. J. D. Huggins as a student in Catawba College. He was always loyal to the college and a safe leader in the student body. I was also closely associated with him as the Principal of Boiling Springs High School for nineteen years, followed by three years as Dean of Boiling Springs Jr. College. Many times during these years he successfully met challenging conditions that called for courage of highest order without faltering.

Educator Delivers H. S. Address

The feature of the high school graduation exercises on Friday Morning, April 27, was the literary address delivered by Dr. A. R. Hayworth of Lenoir-Rhyne College. After felicitating the Boiling Springs community on having the fine people who had been members of his extension classes, he chose as his subject Our School and Our Community.

Offering the assertion that any school and any community are the result of the work of the people who compose the community, he pointed out that unity of spirit, ideas, and efforts were necessary to the accomplishment of any great undertaking. "We must share our mutual woes, our mutual burdens bear," he asserted. All are dependent upon education for peace and happiness.

In developing his theme, the speaker called attention to the following significant facts: There are in the United States five and one half million illiterates; fifty million non-church members. The sixty million church members own 80 per cent of the property of the United States. Twenty seven million young people do not attend Sunday School. From the fifty million illiterates come a large percentage of our criminals. Dr. Hayworth quoted Washington, who considered knowledge as the basis of all happiness. Calling attention to the small percentage of every one hundred children entering school who complete public school courses, he admonished the members of the graduating class to continue their studies.

Dr. Hayworth is in charge of the extension work which Lenoir-Rhyne College offers to teachers who cannot go to the campus to meet their classes. He announced the combined membership of his classes of the present year was

Class Of '34 Publish Annual

For the first time in the history of the institution, Boiling Springs students have this year published an annual. Since the establishment of the College, each year's outgoing class has wished to have an annual and has considered attempting one; but not until the present year has a class undertaken such a project. Early in the present college year, however, at the suggestion of Felix Hamrick, president of the class, and with the encouragement of Miss Lee, the sponsor, the class organized a staff and launched a subscription campaign.

From such a beginning the staff has continued to work, with the result that "Bubbles," Volume One has recently come off the press. It is a neat thirty-six page volume, bound in red imitation leather. The content reveals attractive representations of faculty and students, including each student activity.

By student vote, Mrs. Bessie (J. D.) Huggins was chosen as the dedicatee of the volume. The dedication reads:

"In appreciation for the spirit of wholehearted co-operation which she has always shown toward Boiling Springs College; for her warm friendship and love; for the unselfish service she has so loyally rendered it; and for her life as visible embodiment of the ideals upon which our College was founded, we dedicate this first volume of Bubbles."

In securing a title for the publication, the staff invited faculty and students to submit signed suggestions. Examination of suggestions revealed the fact that one faculty member and one member of the senior class had suggested the title chosen.

Plans are being made by the class of '35 for continuing the publication of Bubbles.

My life—a walk, my dream a race,
Therefore my life too slow for my dreams—

My life is like a lake,
There come many changes, come days rough, some days calm.
But always mean sunset there goes up ways to God.

Years have passed and soon will
I,
Years I've prayed that when I
Die,
God will grant me wings to Fly,
To Him, to Heaven—my friends
And I.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

Oh God, you gave this child
to me,
I pray that when he grows
to be
A man, you will grant him
power to see,
To worship you and comfort
me.
Keep him safe from sin
until eternity.

Among Exchanges

The Indian Leader arrives regularly. We enjoy knowing of the life on Haskell campus. We are convinced that it is wholesome. We particularly enjoy the bits of Indian lore which appear from time to time in the Leader.

The Lenoir-Rhyne continues to show us how fine a college newspaper may be. We like the Mother's Day feature of the May 4 issue.

We wonder where Creek Pebbles and The Hilltop are. We have not had a recent copy of either.

The Trail Blazer has arrived as the representative of the students of Textile Industrial Institute of Spartanburg, S. C. We like it and hope it will come regularly.

The Ki-Hi came to us a few weeks ago from Grainger High School of Kinston, N. C. We like it and are glad to welcome it into our exchange "family."

Shelby High Times has also come to us since we went to press with our last issue. We wish to our neighbor institution on their fine accomplishment, and to wish them continued success.

Teachers Improve Parlor

Using the proceeds from the play, My Irish Cinderella, given by members of the faculty some time ago, a committee, headed by Mrs. Ritch, recently had the floor of the faculty parlor refinished and several pieces of the furniture repaired. Reupholstered in materials harmonizing with other features of the room, the pieces add greatly to the attractiveness and comfort of the parlor. With the remainder of the funds, the committee completed its work with the purchase and placing of a small rug.

According to announcements by the President of the Senior Class, the 1934 annual sermon will be preached by Dr. B. F. Bray of the First Baptist church of Marion in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church on May 20. The literary address will be delivered by Hon. John G. Carpenter of Gastonia. Mr. Carpenter is solicitor for Gaston and Mecklenburg Counties. In view of his sincerity in life, his sympathy with young people, his fine sense of humor, and his oratorical ability, the class feel that they have a treat in store for themselves and their friends.

Rev. Jenkins On Far East Question

In a recent chapel talk Rev. E. B. Jenkins of Rutherfordton, spoke on the relations between the three larger far Eastern States, Japan, China, and Russia. Rev. Jenkins who has traveled extensively and read a great deal at home, discussed briefly the conditions within the countries of Japan, China and Russia. He brought out the fact that all religion was suppressed in Russia. He gave considerable time to a discussion of the Manchurian question and the relation existing between Japan and China.

Mr. Jenkins said he expected to travel abroad again this summer and to spend quite a bit of his time in the very interesting country of Russia.

If the worst comes to the worst, the best will be where the worst should be instead of the worst being where the best ought to be. If the worst were to exchange places with the best and the best with the worst etc, etc—

W. M. S. Tea

On Tuesday afternoon, March 27, the ladies of the faculty and the members of the Boiling Springs W. M. S. gave a tea for the members of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Sandy Run and Kings Mountain Associations in the college reception hall.

The reception hall was beautifully decorated with yellow and white flowers. The stage was arranged to represent an old fashioned garden.

After the guests had visited the tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. Johnson and Miss Gertie Greene, a very interesting program was given.

A large number of guests were expected to attend but because of the inclement wather only local members could attend.

Freshmen Sponsor Fiddlers C'vention

The Freshman Class sponsored a fiddlers' convention in the College auditorium on Friday evening March 16. First and second prizes were awarded for string band, guitar, violin and banjo. There were several entries in each class.

The Carolina Syncopators, of Cliffside, won first prize and then the Shelby Strollers won second for string bands. In the guitar contest, Paul Jackson won first prize and L. A. Rogers second. Miss Smith won first violin and Dewey McDaniel second. In the banjo contest, L. A. Rogers won first and Earl Scruggs second.

The judges for the contests were Mr. George Bell, Mr. Julius Martin and Mr. —

The audience was one of the largest that has attended any program given in the auditorium this year. The class realized a satisfactory sum from the occasion.

Seniors Hold Class Day Exercises

On Monday morning, May 21, at ten o'clock on the lawn in front of the girls' dormitory, the Class Day exercises of the graduating class of Boiling Springs College will be presented. In a unique and picturesque setting, the class will gather to present a program in which all of its members will take part, the following having been elected by the class to specific places on the programs:

Historian Lewis Lynch
Poet Lyman Martin
Prophet Ray Brown
Testator Stancill Nanney
Giftorian Annette Blanton
Reciprocator Margaret Autrey

The address of Welcome will be given by Felix Hamrick, president of the class. At the close of the program on the lawn, the planting of ivy, a ceremony traditional to the graduation of every class from Boiling Springs College, will come as a fitting climax to the exercises. The public is cordially invited to attend these programs.

Seniors Prepare Closing Program

According to announcements by the president of the Senior Class, the 1934 annual sermon will be preached by Dr. B. F. Bray of the First Baptist Church of Marion in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church on May 20. The literary address will be delivered by Hon. John G. Carpenter of Gastonia. In view of his sincerity in life, his sympathy with young people, his fine sense of humor, and his oratorical ability, the class feel that they have a treat in store for themselves and their friends.

Glee Club In Operetta

On Friday evening May 18, at eight o'clock in the auditorium, the Boiling Springs College glee club will present for its commencement concert the operetta, Hearts and Blossoms, a musical romance in two acts, by R. M. Stults.

The scene of the operetta is laid at a popular summer resort hotel, where a plot develops which affords genuine entertainment and plenty of fun among a lively younger set. The audience get a great many laughs at the expense of Samson, the very black bell boy. Samson is hopelessly susceptible to the dusky charms of heart-breaking Malindy, a highstepping "café au lait" young lady. The likeable but impossibly absent-minded Uncle Matthew and the middle-aged but still very good-looking Mrs. Manning, whose particular weakness is her unshakable belief in dreams also furnish much fun. June and Phillip, Marie and Jerry form the central figures in an appealing romance that, for a time, seems to be completely deserted by Lady Luck.

A colorful background is furnished the operetta by the songs and dances of the chorus, whose varied costuming creates an imaginative and picturesque atmosphere here. "Underneath a Parasol, Two Little Girls In Love," "Heart Breakin' Gal," and "Lady Luck" are among the musical numbers that make a lasting impression.

The caste of the operetta is as follows:

Mrs. Horace Manning, who believes in dreams

Louise Sperling
 June, her daughter, young, pretty, and romantic

Annette Blanton
 Marie, her sister, young, just as pretty, and more romantic

the Byl Moore
 Mr. Matthew Bran of the absent minded fan

Spring Scoggins
 Philip Brandon, his classmate

Inewis Lynch
 Jerry Higgins, poor fellow promising

John Withrow
 Malindy, a young lady of color

Florence Hamilton
 Sampson Bonaparte, an ebony-hued bellboy

Alex Ross
 Summer-time acquaintances at

Sunset Lodge:
 Eileen Margaret Autrey

Betty Cathereen Fuller

Bruce John Hendrix

Bob Lyman Martin

Chorus:
 Helen Hamrick, Mary Sue Holland,

Bernice Houser, Mary Hamrick

Mary Sue Mullinax, Jean Moore

Thompson, Ben Jenkins, and Rowell Lane.

Alumni Hold Annual Meeting

As the Kalarathea goes to press plans are being perfected for the annual alumni banquet, which the alumni will enjoy in the College dining room on the evening of Saturday May 19. Several hundred alumni have been notified of the time and place. Calls for tickets are being received and a record attendance is expected. Mr. Ladd Hamrick, of the class of '14 will be toastmaster and an attractive program is being prepared.

Preceding the banquet, the annual business meeting of the Association will be held in the reception hall. Mr. Ernest Gardner, president of the Association, will preside.

The art of killing space in newspapers is indeed an accomplishment to be marveled at by the most alert of our readers. The Kalarathea never kills space. Etc.

It's This Way

By Ray Brown

Once in a while you hear a popular song that is good. But the most of them are just fair to maudlin.

Miss Ables was telling her geography class the names by which people of different states are known. "Now", she said, "the people of North Carolina are known as 'tar heels', those of Georgia, as 'crackers', those of Indiana, as 'hoosiers'; and those of Michigan, as 'Michiganders!'" "Now which of you knows what the people of Maine called?"

Silence, then "I know", chirped George Baker.

"Well, George, what are they called?"

Maniacs," piped our hero.

Married happiness, a novelist declares, depends upon the husband knowing his own mind. Peace is doubly assured if he can keep it to himself.

After much study and extensive reading, we've derived the following conclusions about the New Deal monetary policy:

1—"A new source of revenue" simply means the same old tax payers in a new place—and

2—No matter how low the dollar may fall, it will never fall lower than some people will stoop to get it—yet

3—All we know about "Hard" and "Easy" money is that any kind is both hard to get and easy to spend—but

4—Until the money question is settled, no man can know when he is betting his bottom dollar—Furthermore—

5—Money is Greek to most of us but it certainly can take French leave—and

6—Finally, what this country needs is a dollar which will not be so much elastic as it will be adhesive.

We're indebted to 'School-Marm' Sara Lee for this Parody:

"My candle is aflame at both ends, It will not last the night; But ah my friends, and oh my pals, I have the electric light."

Overheard at the table:

"Yes, I know fish is brain food; but I don't care much for fish. Hain't there some other brain food?"

"Well, there's noodle soup."

President Preaches In South Carolina

President J. L. Jenkins has just returned from Spartanburg, where, for the past two weeks Apr. 23—May 4, he has been conducting revival services at Southside Baptist church of which Dr. J. L. Viperman is pastor. The revival began Monday, April 23, and extended through May 4. Reports coming from Spartanburg assure us that Mr. Jenkins' work in the South Carolina City has been very fruitful and that the church goers of the city were impressed by his earnestness and ability. Station W. S. P. A. bestowed upon him the signal honor of broadcasting his morning services during the entire two weeks of his stay.

On Sunday, June 5, President Jenkins will again be honored as to his old field at Umatilla, Fla., he returns to his old field at Umatilla, Fla., to deliver the dedication sermon in the handsome church edifice which was built during his pastorate there.

Annual Memorial Services Held For Professor Huggins

Chapel hour on Tuesday, April 17, was devoted to the annual memorial service in memory of the late J. D. Huggins. The program consisted of speeches by two noteworthy men of this section and the bringing of a great number and variety of flowers by the people of the community for the purpose of decorating the grave.

The service was opened by Mr. J. H. Quinn, chairman of the Board of Trustees, who led the invocation. He was then followed by Rev. John Suttles, Moderator of the Kings Mountain Association, also a member of the Board of Trustees, who discussed the school in general. His main topic, however, was the school's past with its relation to Professor Huggins and its present day prospects. Next was the principal address of the morning given by Dr. W. A. Ayers of Forest City on the life of Professor Huggins. Dr. Ayers devoted most of his time to a discussion of the relations of professor Huggins with the school, and the wonderful work he had done here. Rev. W. G. Camp pronounced the benediction.

Due to inclement weather conditions the procession to the grave and the decoration of it had to be postponed until the afternoon.

Students Attend B. S. U. Retreat

The B. S. U. spring retreat of North Carolina was held at the Baptist Cottage, 510 Forest Avenue Road, Greensboro, April 21, 1934. This retreat is held annually for planning work with the new officers for the next year and for inspirational study.

Miss Sibyl Brame, approved Southwide field worker of the Sunday School Board, and Mr. M. A. Huggins, Secretary of the Baptist State Convention, were speakers in the afternoon session. Miss Brame, in an interesting discussion on the duties of the various B. S. U. officers, made some very fine suggestions on how to vary the program to prevent dull repetition. Mr. Huggins urged that the young people of North Carolina help the Baptist attain the objectives adopted by the 1933 session at the Baptist State Convention.

Preceding these discussions, officers of the B. S. U.'s of the colleges represented met in separate groups to discuss problems and exchange ideas which they had found to work successfully. Mr. Perry Morgan, Secretary of the State Sunday School Department, met with the Sunday School section; Miss Winnie Rickett, State B. Y. P. U. Secretary, with the B. Y. P. U.; Dr. Townsend, a pastor of Raleigh, with the ministerial group and Miss Brame with the presidents of the B. S. U.'s. These group meetings inspired every officer with a host of new ideas to put into operation on his home campus.

The night session was an inspirational service. Following the devotional, a number of delegates presented a mock trial, in which Miss Ridgecrest was accused of having a malevolent influence on the lives of hundreds of young people in the South. However, Miss Ridgecrest, by aid of several witnesses presented adequate evidence to prove herself guiltless. On the other hand, she showed that her influence was quite uplifting and spiritual. The plaintiff was sentenced to spend a week at Ridgecrest this summer.

Rev. Winston Pearce, former B. S. U. President, then gave a soul-stirring message from the famous question asked by the Mahatma Gandhi, of India, "Why don't young people of Africa take Christ seriously?" The spiritual atmosphere of his message seemed to draw all campuses into closer fellowship.

The meeting closed with an inspirational talk by Miss Brame on "Witnessing for Christ," which was central theme of the entire program.

B. S. representatives to the conference were Dorothy Washburn, state B. S. U. reporter, and Marlow Stroupe. They were accompanied by Miss Ables of the faculty. Bernice Whitesides and Catherine Fuller, who visited on the N. C. C. W. campus were also members of the party, but they did not attend the conference.

Miss Washburn and Mr. Stroupe report that the meeting was one of the most impressive they ever attended. Both of them gained many helpful suggestions which, if put into practice, will place the religious activities of the campus on top. They gave an account of the meeting in chapel the following Thursday morning.

On the return home on Sunday the party stopped at the Mills Home in Thomasville. They arrived there in time to hear the last part of the morning service. It was a great experience for all the young people to see the orphanage in which every Baptist in the state should have an interest.

It is hoped that the 1935 retreat may be held at B. S. C.

Grammar School Closing Exercises

The fascinating old fairy tale, Sleeping Beauty, was brought to life by the elementary school before a great crowd on Thursday evening April 26, in the College gymnasium. The operetta was given as the closing exercise of the school.

The center of interest was a great blue and gold throne, built pyramid style, against the background of greenery. The king, C. L. Burnett, in royal purple robes, occupied this throne with the queen, Beatrice Phillips, who was dressed in yellow with high neck ruff and crown.

Nancy Carroll Moore was irresistible as the sleeping beauty while C. W. Jenkins made a very handsome Prince Charming. The heralds were Betty Jean Hamrick and Miriam Lipscomb.

The ladies-in-waiting were dressed in colonial style frocks in pastel shades of organdy. The gentlemen were in yellow suits with long capes matching in color the dresses of the ladies.

The twelve good fairies, in white with pink wings were in marked contrast with the somber garbed wicked fairy.

The story of the sleeping beauty was told in dialogue and song. Some interesting folk dances were added to the original (which added very much to the play.) Another interpolated feature was the Pageant of a Hundred Years given while the princess slept. The passing of the years was suggested by the evolution of transportation. Each episode was introduced by Mr. were the following:

- 1—Man travels on foot.
- 2—Man travel on horseback.
- 3—Man travels by train.
- 4—Man travels by automobile.
- 5—Man travels by aeroplane.

The large cast of children gave a very creditable performance.

Sauline Players Give Two Plays

On Thursday, March 29, the Sauline Players presented two plays in the College auditorium. At the matinee performance they offered Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm. In the evening they gave Peg O' My Heart. Both plays were well presented and were enjoyed by appreciative audiences.

The Sauline Company is composed of professional players directed by Mr. Joseph Sauline of New York.

These plays were sponsored by the High School and the Annual Staff.

Students! Beware of the pitfalls of life. Remember what you have been taught in your story at Boiling Springs College.

CWA Work Goes On At B. S. College

Despite the fact that F. D. R. has let go near four million CWA workers, there are still eight boys and girls to be found doing their daily two hours on the campus of B. S. College. These faithful workers have accomplished a number of noteworthy jobs already and have several projects planned for the rest of the school term. Some of the jobs already finished are the cleaning and repainting of the alumni reception rooms, the class room of Miss Ables, and the dining hall. Some of the jobs contemplated are putting rods under the floor of the gym, putting turf on the roadbank in front of the girls building, and other things for the general improvement of the campus.

What We Should Get Out Of Chapel

The chapel period should be one of devotional exercise in the life of every student. After attending a program, one should go out with the very fibre of his moral being stronger. A student, in the few moments spent in chapel, should come so close to God that light from his blessed face would shine for us the rest of the day. These moments should give us the inner strength to help some friend along life's way. Last, these periods should be one of the sweetest memories that a student could have of his college days.

Roy Green, '35

Dr. Hayworth Luncheon Guest

Following the High School Commencement of Friday, April 27, the Boiling Springs members of Dr. Hayworth's classes entertained him at a luncheon in the college dining room. Covers were laid for fourteen. Those present were Dr. Hayworth, Mr. O. P. Hamrick, Mr. D. Butler Pruett, Mrs. J. L. Jenkins, Mrs. J. H. Jones, Mrs. John Mintz, Mrs. Bessie Huggins, Mrs. J. M. Walker, Miss Rosina Hamrick, Mrs. Harold Honeycutt, Miss Maude Morehead, Miss Verdine Walker, Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Miss Sara Lee Hamrick.

Faculty Entertain

On Wednesday evening April 11, the faculty informally entertained the members of the Philonian Book Club of Boiling Springs and their husbands. The reception hall was attractively decorated with spring flowers. After a period of "dates", in which every one present had a chance to talk with five other persons, the program continued with a few musical numbers, including a brief excerpt from Smiling Through.

Toward the close of the evening the hostesses served a salad course with accessories of baby Baltimore cake and punch.

Guests present included Dr. and Mrs. J. Y. Hamrick, Dr. B. M. Jarrett, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hamrick, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Ladd Hamrick, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Honeycutt, Mrs. John Mintz, Mr. and Mrs. Huff Hamrick, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. J. H. Jones, Pres. and Mrs. J. L. Jenkins, Dr. and Mrs. James McBrayer, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Jolley, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Hamrick, Miss Sara Lee Hamrick, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bell.

TO THE FACULTY AND STUDENTS OF BOILING SPRINGS JUNIOR COLLEGE

This being the last publication of this paper for this school term, I wish to extend to each and every one of you my deepest appreciation for your patronage of the past. To those of you that can be with us another year, I hope our friendship and business connections will be even closer than in the past, and to those of you that will not be back with us again I wish for you a most pleasant and prosperous future.

Ambigious Tysosophy

While the world turns around the wind blows about the dusty corners and keeps your eyes full of sand. But nevertheless here is some chaotic news that may be unapprehensible. Speaking of the recent grads that are now on their way toward success and happiness, let's visit our big brother college down at Wake; those two boys last year's class sent down: Are they really making the honor roll regularly by constant study, or are they just intellectually smart? But what makes them unhappy? One thinks he needs a long rest in the hospital, while the other wants to go to the mountains. The Virginia ad seems to take to the grocery business. One lady is working for Uncle Sam. Several others are in the nursing business with their eyes turned toward the doctors. Then there's the swineman in the lumber business, while the merry girls teach school and study. The ministers are living happy and planning on extending their education. The mountain man seems to be busy by not visiting often. We would not forget our grand musician down at Limestone, speaking well of B. S. while the local grads still stand out in life. And who remembers that guy still making a luxurious edible (eatable).

Well let's get off them and speak more learned. Did anyone borrow anything and not return it? Gone are our school days at B. S. but we'll never forget the happy ones spent in the library. The only consolation we get now of them is if I had them to live over again, they would be different. Yes, we might even study more; but study what? Come down to the fact of the matter, B. S. U. is one of the grandest and most Thaumaturgical places on the map of N. C. There are many places that are worse for a politician to be than B. S. Even the religious side leads kind of different from our own home town. Very soon B. S. will be turning out another group of young people with their eyes and mind set on higher deals of life than ever before. If they can accomplish their dreams then happiness is assured to them.

We must pay tribute to those noble teachers who are loyal, unselfish and working for the advancement of humanity. Without their aid and sympathy, it would be a different place. But, going deeper, let's mention the man with an inspiring personality to all who come in contact with him. President J. L. Jenkins. He has lifted B. S. from the low lands and placed it on a mountain top.

Speaking learnedly to the grads of '34 what did Samuel Johnson say to Boswell when he asked him about the cook and poet? Let's ask the history students one. Name the wives of Henry the Eighth. What conditions. What great war general carried a diamond in his sword? What president of the U. S. got kicked down by a gun and bluffed a crowd?

Spring seems to be in the air, now that May Day has gone, the main event of spring, looked forward to by all old grads and lovers of good entertainment. Both young and old enjoy a program like we had presented a few days ago. While spring is here and young men's thoughts turn to love, wonder what the young ladies think of. The banquet is on in a short time. Then we can see all our old class buddies. What a happy event if they all could be there! And the good "eats" we always have! Now that the end is near, wonder how I should close. Just a plain ending, so long till next year.

Sincerely and Respectfully,
Always Optimistic

W. M. Societies Help College

A recent service of the College was that the members of the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Sandy Run and Kings Mountain Associations. Having heard that the dining room was in need of table linen, they contributed more than was needed for linen. The surplus was sent for paint for the dining room walls, which were painted during the Easter holidays by the student CWA force. The College is deeply appreciative of this service by the women.

Fighting Bob Wins A Trip

Quite a bit of renown was attached to the name of one of our students as "Fighting Bob" Hyder jabbed his way to the lightweight championship in the Seaboard Finals. Hyder gained his title at the Charlotte Armory on March 27, by defeating Everette Eldridge of Gastonia. The night before he had won a clear decision over Jim McLachlen, Florida champion of the last three years.

Hyder, along with the champions of the seven other weights, was rewarded with a trip to St. Louis where they entered the National A. A. U. final on April 4, 5 and 6. None of the Seaboard champs managed to win national titles, but the entire coterie give good account of their ability and received a large amount of publicity.

Class Observes Arbor Day

Members of the class in geography observed Arbor day, March 16, by planting several mimosa trees on the campus. The trees were donated by Mr. Putnam of McSwainsville, and selected by members of the class with the help of Mrs. Ritch.

The trees are living and, it is hoped by the members of the class in geography that succeeding classes will follow their example and will observe the day fittingly.

Leading the class in the project were Rowell Lane, John Withrow, and John Hedrick.

Class Day Exercises

At chapel assembly Monday morning, April 23, class day exercise was held by the High School Seniors of '34. Marlow Stroupe conducted the devotional, which was followed by the following: Class History by Mallie Wallace; Class Poem by Max Putnam; Giftorian by Joe Moore; Class Prophecy by Sarah Thompson; Last Will and Testament by Maeie Lee Hamrick; and the Reciprocity by Packard Elliott. This brought the exercise to a close.

GIRLS OBSERVE MAY DAY

wore lavender and her attendant wore purple.

The ladies and gentlemen of her court wore bright colors.

Robin Hood and his men wore green. Folk dancers wore combinations of white and green.

The scarfs used in the scarf dance were dyed in vari-colors. The dancers wore harmonizing costumes.

A bright Scotch tartan gave distinction to the highland fling.

For the rainbow dance, the dancers wore rainbow costumes of pastel mesh.

The concluding number, the maypole dance, proved colorfully interesting in that it presented a kind of composite of preceding features. Decked with pastel streamers of bunting, it served as an appropriate center for the dance around it.

Marshals for the occasion were Bernice Houser, Helen Hamrick, Sara Lee Norman, and Lois Jolley.

BULLDOGS HOLD THEIR GRIP

victors after they had bruised three Presbyterian pitchers for eighteen base blows. Withrow went the entire route and turned in the best pitching performance seen this season. Harrill, Mauney, Baker and Hendrick all did noble work with the willow.

As Kalarathea goes to press it seems that the baseball team is headed for a top berth in the conference standing. This affords an opportunity for Boiling Springs students to pass out compliments to the coach and his hard hitting nine. But as we pass out the orchids, let us remember, also to include those who, by their timely aid, made it possible for the boys to have the proper equipment with which to carry on such a successful season.

When Coach Hutchins issued the first call for practice this spring this spring it was on uncertain call.

The team had just about the amount of equipment that a nudist colony uses in mid-August, and about as much money as Insull left in his defunct utility companies. In all, it was a gloomy picture. Yet, when time came for the first game our team took the field arrayed like a battery of major league stars on parade. Also they were the owners of a fair lot of paraphernalia.

The uniforms were donated by the Cleveland Cloth Mill, through James Webb Gardner. Mr. Gardner, a Cloth Mill official, is an enthusiastic fan and was last year manager of the fast semi-pro outfit which represented Shelby.

Other necessary supplies were secured by several Shelby business men and other supporters of athletics.
